

AGREE UPON
BIG CUT IN COAL PRICES

OPERATORS CUT RATES $1 TO
$1.50 PER TON AT THE MINE
AS RESULT OF CONFERENCE.

FIX MAXIMUM CHARGE

Further Reductions Effecting Saving of Millions to American People
Looked For After an Investigation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, June 28.—The conference of 400 operators representing all coal producing states took quick action today toward lowering coal prices, by adopting resolutions authorizing their committee "to give assent to such maximum prices for coal, free on board cars at mines in the various districts, as may be named by the secretary of the interior, federal trade commission and council of national coal production committee."

Plans were agreed on for an announcement later today of tentative "fair and reasonable" prices, based on suggestions from the operators, to be effective July 1.

The resolution giving "assent" to fixing of maximum prices, was reported by former Governor Fort from a special committee. He said he believed the resolution was entirely safe for the conference to adopt and that any responsibility as to legality of the fixing of the prices, was put on the government.

The resolution points out that a national fuel emergency exists in the nation's fuel supply and the coal operators and miners, desire to closely cooperate with the government.

An immediate general reduction of $1.00 to $1.50 a ton in the price of coal at the mine was agreed upon by representatives of coal operators.

The operators agreed to the immediate reductions at a meeting here today after adopting a resolution by which coal prices could be fixed with the aid and approval of the secretary of the interior, the federal trade commission and the committee on coal production of the national defense council.

Coal Praises Action.

About 600,000,000 tons of coal were mined in this country last year and Secretary Lane has earnestly urged a reduction believes the savings to the American people will be enormous.

After hearing of the operator's action, Mr. Lane wrote a letter to F. S. Peabody, chairman of coal production committee, who has been in constant conference with operators in which he praised the operators as "large men dealing with a large question."

"We must gain for each by gaining for all," he said. "The country is in a mood for sacrifice."

Corporal Hall, who was the author of "Kitchen's Mob," joined the American squadron a short time after being wounded in the British army and discharged. He brought down a German aeroplane four days ago.

Sub-Lieutenant Dorne, one of the most skillful French aviators, who had been credited officially with bringing down twenty German aeroplanes, has been missing since he flew over the enemy's line on May 25 on a scouting mission. His fate is unknown.

Loyalty Resolutions
One Drawn by Rosa,
Passed in Assembly

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Madison, June 28.—Two resolutions pressing loyalty to Wisconsin to the nation were adopted by overwhelming votes in the assembly today. The first, by Rosa, declared:

"So far as it is within our power to speak for the people of Wisconsin we believe them intensely loyal and that our nation may expect for them no undivided support."

"One person of every ten of Wisconsin's population existed in the civil war. Wisconsin will do no less now. We stand ready to give her the best that is in us—our best thought, our best dollar and our life's blood if need be."

The Chappel resolution tendered direct support to the president of the United States. He declared this state pledges every measure of support in the war against the imperial government of Germany.

The Rosa resolution was an independent measure while the Chappel resolution is a substitute to an old one, offered in the senate early in a session which was intended to condemn La Follette. The votes on the resolution, respectively were sixty-six to eight and fifty-four to seven.

The Wilcox bill calling for the printing and distribution of 100,000 copies of the president's war message, was returned by the assembly senate today after the lower house, refusing to eleven, refused to adhere to a long appeal relating to the causes of the war.

Final action was given to the bill providing for a three-mile dry zone around military camps, as agreed upon the measure applies only to retail liquor businesses. The senate received a veto message from the governor today, refusing assent to the bill which conferred on judges of Milwaukee county, power to suspend sentence when the punishment was less than one year's duration.

POLICE METHODS IN CRUGER MURDER MAY REVEAL SENSATIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
New York, June 28.—In connection with the trial of the Cruger murder, methods used by the police in attempting to catch the slayer of Ruth Cruger, a young girl, have been the subject of much discussion.

Movements of Alfredo Cocchi, confessed murderer of the high school girl now under arrest, are to be traced for the week following the murder.

It was also said today the Rev. Gaspard Moretto, who talked to Cocchi after the murder of the Cruger girl, might be recalled to the witness stand and questioned further about any revelations Cocchi may have made to him.

Early today, it was said evidence of the Cruger murder had been discovered by Mrs. Grace Humiston, whose efforts led to the finding of the murdered girl's body, which bears out her contention that Cocchi was a member of a white slave ring operating here and in Mexico.

Mrs. Humiston, it was said, made a search of the cellar of a house in public place might be recalled to the witness stand and questioned further about any revelations Cocchi may have made to him.

Although Mrs. Humiston and detectives with her decided that the public evidence they had discovered, it was learned that it tended to bear out the story of Miss Louise La Rue, who jumped from her window recently when she said her life was threatened by men accused with being connected with white slave rings, with whom Cocchi worked.

According to Commissioner Wallsten the police investigation has only begun.

He declared every angle of activities or inactivities of the department would be gone into thoroughly until public evidence they had discovered, it was learned that it tended to bear out the story of Miss Louise La Rue, who jumped from her window recently when she said her life was threatened by men accused with being connected with white slave rings, with whom Cocchi worked.

HUGHES AT CHICAGO
IN BIT COURT ACTION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Chicago, June 28.—Charles E. Hughes today made his first appearance in Chicago since the Wilson-Hughes campaign. He appeared at the United States court of appeals in connection with the American Press association and Western Newspaper Union in an attempt to obtain a modification of the decree of the lower court restraining the sale of the newspaper plate business of the American Press association to the Western Newspaper Union, Judge Landis.

The lower court recently decreed to modify his opinion of four years ago, that such a sale would violate the anti-trust law. It is alleged by the American Press association that the sale is necessary if it is to preserve any of its assets.

JEALOUS HUSBAND
KILLS WIFE AND ENDED OWN LIFE

Beloit the Scene of a Double Tragedy
Wednesday Evening Over Ten-sided Matrimonial Affairs.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Beloit, June 28.—Crazed over the refusal of his wife to return and live with him and jealous of the attention she imagined other men were showing her, Howard Adams, aged thirty-two, shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Adams, and then ended his own life Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams have been separated for a year, the husband working in the P. B. Yates Machine company and his wife making her home with her sister, Mrs. Ted Olson, 941 Park avenue. Early Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Adams went to her home on the farm, between Beloit and Clinton, and later drove to Clinton, accompanied by her brother, Reuben Graves, in a car driven by the Olson house by a friend of the Adams family.

On the farm, between Beloit and Clinton, and later drove to Clinton, accompanied by her brother, Reuben Graves, in a car driven by the Olson house by a friend of the Adams family. The field men of the Rock County Sugar company, who had been summoned to the Graves farm to look over the best crop, Mr. Nichols left Graves and his sister, Mrs. Clinton, while the driver, miles south of the village and picked them up on his return, taking Graves to his farm and Mrs. Adams, at her request, to her sister's home in Beloit.

Separated from her husband for a year past, and having started divorce proceedings, Mrs. Adams had a great fear that she would be killed by some violence owing to Adams' disposition. On her arrival in the Olson home she found her husband waiting for her to seek a reconciliation. Mrs. Adams returned to them later to hear Adams say, "Then you will come back." Immediately Mrs. Adams rose and went into another room, leaving the Olson house by a friend of the Adams family.

Her husband, evidently fearing she intended to call the police, as she had been forced to do previously, followed her. Mrs. Adams rushed into the kitchen of a neighbor, brandishing a revolver, followed her. Mrs. Fox rushed to get her own children out of danger and heard three shots fired. Two found lodgment in Mrs. Adams' head and the third went into Adams' own head above the right ear. Mrs. Adams was rushed to the emergency hospital, but died ten minutes after the shooting. The couple had two children, Frank, aged eight, and Harry, aged six. At the time of the shooting, Mrs. Adams was wearing a light-colored dress and a white apron. She was carrying a bag of groceries.

Graves' home repeatedly attempted his wife's life and recently a brother had intervened and prevented his choking her.

EX-CONVICT IS HERO
OF CARPATHIAN ARMY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Petrograd, June 28.—The hero of the army in the wooded Carpathians, is a former convict from Siberia. By his example, he inspired an army of forces who heretofore had abandoned him refused to charge.

The ex-convict, whose rank is sergeant, led fifty volunteers in a rush against a German bludge. The heavy fire, wavered, whereupon the sergeant alone climbed the breastworks and hurled a bomb among the enemy. He was shot and killed.

Attacked by three Germans, he was shot and killed. Then with only eighteen followers, severely wounded, he held his ground. This produced general panic among the enemy and resulted in the capture of many prisoners.

The sergeant was given an officer's commission. Two regiments invited him to take command and the whole of his division resolved immediately to participate in an offensive.

U. S. SHOWS WORLD
EFFICIENT IN WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Annapolis, Md., June 28.—America is demonstrating to the world that a democracy of 100,000,000 persons can wage war efficiently and with unity of spirit, Secretary Daniels declared today in a commencement address to nearly 200 members of the naval academy third year class, whose graduation was advanced by a year to provide officers for fighting ships.

Those who prophesied that America would not go wholeheartedly into this war have been discredited, said the secretary. "The only divided council have been as to the best method to be employed."

"Our traditional policy has been against any but voluntary military service. When conditions demanded the selective draft, it was written into the law."

"Congress authorized the issue of two billions bonds for war preparation. The croakings of a few pessimists were drowned by the multitude of voices offering hard won savings as freely as surplus wealth."

"Upon the heels of this unprecedented investment, the Red Cross society launched a campaign to raise $100,000,000. More was given than had been asked."

"Congress is now engaged in writing a taxing bill. There is no division in congress except as to the sources of taxation and the people will pay without protest whatever it may cost to carry this war to a successful conclusion."

"In the navy and in the marine corps their chief problem has been to house and uniform and equip the thousands who flock to the standard. The army is securing all the men who can be trained."

"We do not hate the people we are to fight. We hate only the autocracy which harnesses them to the Juggernaut. Our victory will not only make the world safe for democracy, it will not only end the fiction of a divine right, but it will end the German people hope for the day when they will no longer be the pawns of militarism."

HARTIN'S CASE SET FOR TENTH OF JULY

Asks for Preliminary Examination in Beloit Municipal Court When Arraigned This Morning.

Calmly walking hand-cuffed between county officials, and nodding easily now and then at old friends he was recognized by a large group of people gathered. Fred Hartin entered the dingy Beloit municipal court this morning and heard Judge Clark read the warrant of arrest for an alleged slaying of H. A. Krause, his companion at Waupun prison, in a desolated river camp near Yost park last November.

With the same sane demeanor with which he surprised the officers who went east to bring him back to justice, Hartin calmly asked for an attorney before the court. This was anticipated and planned for and it was arranged several days ago that following the alleged murder's request, the preliminary would be set for the second week of July. Tuesday, the tenth, was the date decided upon.

Hartin was held without bail. He was returned to the jail in custody of Sheriff "Bob" Whipple.

PLAN A CAMPAIGN
TO AROUSE NATION
TOWARD'S MEANING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
New York, June 28.—With the slogan, "Wake Up, America!" the National Security league, the pioneer preparedness organization, which now has 100,000 members and 280 active branches scattered throughout the country, has inaugurated a nationwide speech-making campaign to arouse the nation to a realization of the true meaning of the war and the necessity for its aggressive prosecution.

Final plans for the campaign will be laid at a conference of all organizations engaged in patriotic education at Chautauqua, N. Y., July 2-7. The campaign will be conducted under the direction of the National Security league's committee on patriotic education, the members of which are: Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard, chairman; Henry F. Allen, editor of "The Nation"; Mrs. Philip N. Moore, of St. Louis, president of the National Council of Women; Arthur E. Bestor, president of Chautauqua Institution; and St. Stanwood Menken, chairman of the executive committee of the National Security league.

In discussing the plans of his committee, Fred Hart said:

"Our subjects are to be dealt with in possible in every address or series of addresses delivered under the auspices of the committee. These topics are the milk of the cocoanut, the essence of the foreign plan. They are:

"1. Why are foreign countries, and why is the United States now at war? 2. Universal military and naval training and preparations for making that training available to protect American ideals and interests."

Describing those who are not in the immediate task of the American people.

"4. Personal and national efficiency in production, industry and government, especially as war measures and necessary after the war for national development."

"The whole force and energy of this plan consists in reaching through the spoken address those who are not much affected by printed matter, and to fortify those who do read and ponder on their reading. It may all be summed up in the war cry, 'To inform and to arouse.'"

"The country sorely needs clear, definite, authentic information on the situation of the world and our own position as a nation. It needs a plan made to be aroused to the absolute necessity of organizing our men, materials and government in such a way as to meet the terrifically concentrated force of our great enemy, Germany."

"The truth is that to inform, to arouse, and to act together is an absolute necessity, just as much for the citizen as for the soldier and the Liberty Loan. The American people are patriotic to the backbone. What they want to know, what they have a right to know, is how and why militarism is especially in demand today."

"They must realize the tremendous preparations and sacrifices of every nation that must be made if the republic is to remain secure. Whoever helps to make his neighbor feel that the war is a great national crisis, demanding not only loyalty, but work and suffering, helping to build a wall against German armies and German autocracy."

U.S. Army in France
Ready For Trenches
As Independent Unit

Washington, June 28.—Somewhere in France, thousands of America's fighting men are today encamped, ready to take their places in the trenches, the best of the seasoned campaigners of the allies.

Regulars and marines, fresh from service on the Mexican border, or in Haiti or Santo Domingo, were landed yesterday, after a voyage in which the German submarines were eluded, and all records were broken for transporting overseas a large military unit. News of the arrival of troops sent a thrill through America as it was generally unknown any large detachment had yet left the American shores.

The forces will be a net gain to the allies, as the men will be fed, clothed, armed and equipped by this government. Already there are being stored in encampments supplies sufficient for many months.

The American forces will be an independent unit, co-operating with the allies. It has been suggested that the Americans might be placed in a connecting link between French and British armies, but exigencies of the coming campaign will decide that question.

Quarters for Pershing.
Paris, June 28.—Major General J. J. Pershing left his hotel for a fine, old residence in the Rue de Valenciennes, so as to be near his headquarters. The residence, formerly belonged to Prince Gortchakov. It was leased before the war by Ogden Mills of New York, who placed it at the disposal of General Pershing.

Pershing's Statement on War.
The American commander was asked today to comment on General Petain's article entitled "Why We Are Fighting," published yesterday in the army bulletin. General Pershing said:

"General Petain's answer to the question of the complete defeat of the allies set forth would convince the world of the justice of our great cause. I cannot think it possible anyone could hold a different view of why we are in the war. It is quite beyond reason why anyone knowing the truth should fail to condemn the course pursued by the German government, and the truth has been made plain by the distinguished commander-in-chief of the French army."

"There must be no peace except a lasting peace. The ideas for which we are fighting are too sacred to be held sacred. France will continue her splendid fight for human rights and human liberties and fresh examples of courage and sacrifice will be required to further inspire those fighting by her side."

"BONE DRY"
FOOD BILL
IN SENATE

MEASURE WILL BE PUSHED FOR EARLY PASSAGE WITH FINAL ACTION SOON AFTER
JULY 1.

PROTESTS POURING IN

Objections From Wisconsin and New England Sources Indicate Organized Opposition—"Dry's" Busy Soliciting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington, June 28.—Consideration of the food control bill, as amended to include local prohibition sections, was begun today in the senate. The original bill was laid aside and the revised draft was substituted. The prohibition question, looming large, promised a spectacular and probably long struggle. Some senators told legislators they would never permit the bill to pass containing the "bone dry" provisions unless the senate's new closure rule were invoked to force it.

Washington, June 28.—The amended food control bill containing a new provision of prohibition sections, was up for action in the senate for the first time today. It will be pushed for early passage, but it is probable that final action cannot be taken before July 1, on account of the prohibition feature. This would forbid the manufacture of liquor during the war, but would authorize the president to permit wine making and commandeer existing stocks of distilled spirits.

To Move Amended Bill.
Senator Chamberlain expected to move today to have the amended bill reported yesterday by the agriculture committee, substituted for the dry bill, which the senate has been debating. Not in years, according to several senators, has such interest been aroused as indicated by telegrams and letters to the prohibitionists. Thousands of telegrams poured in upon senators today advocating and opposing the postponed dry plan with a majority in opposition.

From farmers, merchants, labor unions, and municipal officers and organizations, the senators are hearing from the country on prohibition. Wisconsin senators today are especially active in the matter.

Wisconsin farmers and agricultural organizations telegraphed today that thousands of acres of barley had been planted there in expectation of continuance of brewing. Labor unions, are emphasizing loss of employment from closing of breweries, and municipal officers are pointing out the loss of revenues. A few telegrams were from individuals protesting against interference with their use of temperate malt beverages.

Organized Opposition.
Many of the telegrams of protest are in identical language, indicating organized opposition. Attorneys and other representatives of national brewing and distilling interests are busy in the lobby and offices interviewing senators. The "dry's" also are active with leaders of the national anti-saloon league engaged in personal lobbying.

Action on News Print.
The Reed resolution calling upon the federal trade commission to inform the senate why it has not ordered news print manufacturers to desist from "illegal practices and exorbitant charges," was passed today by the senate without objection.

As soon as this resolution was agreed to, the senate voted to accept under which it was proposed that the government authorize the government representatives named in the resolution to issue a statement of the reasons for the action.

NEW AUTO DEVICE PROTECTS PUBLIC; GEARS SPEEDSTER

Automatic Electric Auto Speed Signal and Illuminated License Number Gets Widespread O. K.

An Ohio genius announced recently he had devised an instrument to tame the rattle-brained automobilist. It he replied to queries, consisted of an instrument on the dash to register with a white light when the driver was traveling twenty miles an hour, a green light when he hit thirty, a red one when he was reaching 40, and when he was doing the elevated spots at sixty a music box under the front seat began playing, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Although not so elaborate as to include an electric organ, but embodying all the other features an automatic speed signal device was demonstrated to and immediately received the instant approval of Janesville and Rock county officials this morning. The invention not only shows the public at what rate the automobile is traveling, but an arrangement on the bumper, which is included in the signaling device, is such that the rate of speed the machine is going at the time of an accident is registered and locked on the speedometer.

The device has the endorsement of every city, county and state official before whom it has been shown, and in addition automobile clubs are backing it, and recently a number of the nation's greatest highway experts have endorsed it and investigated the device to register the rate of speed at the time of accident. This alone would save thousands of dollars annually to railroads were locomotives so equipped.

F. W. Fisher of Milwaukee, Wisconsin agent, and R. C. Dahlgren, Evanston, Ill., general sales manager, showed the patent here today. They have issued recommendations for the safety appliances from every state, county and city official before whom it has been demonstrated.

Light indicates the speed attained. The license number is on a transparent substance and locked with a state seal between two panes of glass held in an aluminum frame. Below the license number is a small dial with the amount necessary to make the perfect food, and there is not one bit of indigestible matter.

Every ounce of our milk is sold with the full realization of the knowledge that we are selling the best food on the market at a price far below other less digestible foods.

Two hundred couples last night attended Company M's benefit dance at the Throgs Hall. The band and orchestra gave a program of music, and the dancers enjoyed the evening very much. The dance was held for the benefit of the Company M fund, and the proceeds will be used for the purchase of uniforms and other necessities for the soldiers when in camp and in the field was not known today, as all ticket sellers had not reported back to Lieutenant Fred Rau.
An orchestra from the First Regimental band "Jazzed" in cabaret order on certain occasions during the program and at other periods varied from the lighter and sweeter strains of the older waltz and two-step music. Their music was excellent and plans are in the embryo to bring the orchestra back for another party in the near future.

FIGHTER AND MUM PLAYERS PROVEN EQUALLY POPULAR

It is a matter of hair-splitting to draw the line of popularity between the ball player who raises the rumpus on the field and the steady, ear-her-ging star who merely plays baseball to win, leaving the fighting to the more belligerent.

Of types there are plenty of each variety in either of the big leagues. There are stars who are pointed to for their aggressiveness, and there are stars who are referred to as calm, close-mouthed players—men who are quiet off the field so seldom the fan cannot remember the happenings.

Of the belligerent type John J. McGraw, Charley Herzog, Arthur Fletcher, John Evers, Heinie Zimmerman, Ty Cobb, Fred Tyler, Miguel Gonzalez and Rabbit Maranville are the most prominent. And every one of them is a popular player. Perhaps there isn't a more popular man anywhere in the national pastime than the fiery leader of the New York Giants.

On the other hand there are Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, Joe Jackson, Roger Peckinpaugh, Vally Pipp, Joe Judge, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander, Frank Baker and half a dozen other real, high class ball players from whom a real, live kick in angry tones never was heard. And these men are almost if not quite as popular as the ones listed under the headings of the belligerents.

The Braves, when they were driving well and sticking around the top of National league standings constituted one of the greatest drawing cards the game ever has seen. Every man on the club was a fighter. The club won its games by fighting. Bulldozing was one of its greatest assets and the players made it go over.

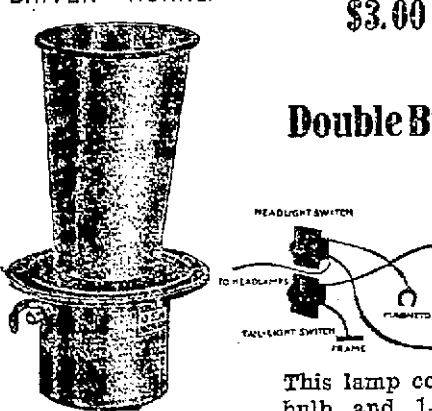

Then there were the Athletics—men who rarely uttered a protest. They merely played baseball and were recognized as the greatest machine baseball ever has seen in action. They drew powerfully in every American league city.

The main difference seems to be the quiet kind of a ball player draws his check intact, while the scrapping suffers the setback of the fines.

POULTRY and GARDEN

LETTERS ADDRESSED TO THE EDITOR, SHOULD ENCLOSE 2c STAMP IF REPLY OTHER THAN THROUGH THESE COLUMNS IS DESIRED

Discarding the "boarder hen" will be a popular practice for hundreds of Wisconsin poultrymen this summer. Men who know the feathered food factory business pretty well say that only young to middle aged hens of excellent health and constitutional vigor can be expected to "pay their way by their lay." Tough old down-agers and weak sisters in the flock never have and never will be producers.

"Such unprofitable fowls might be said, however, to be earning their salt, as the saying goes—for salt will kill them—and that's what they need most," comments on Badger fancier.

Selecting the Strong Birds.

Points in the official score card for constitutional vigor as given in classes at the poultry department, University of Wisconsin, include the following items:
Comb and wattles, bright color, fair size for breed—10 points; head, broad, deep, fairly short—5 points; beak, stout and well curved—5 points; eyes, full, round, and bright—5 points; body, deep, wide, and well feathered—10 points; breast, full, prominent, well fleshed—5 points; keel, straight and full—5 points; abdomen, deep, full, soft, but not sagging—5 points; legs and toes, stocky, well colored shanks and short, heavy heels—5 points. The rest of the card lists activity, health, glossy plumage, and a well-oiled, soft skin on the ground, and a normal producing fowl.

Marks of Advancing Years.

Points to look for in an old bird are somewhat faded, dirty plumage; purple, pink points rounded, sagging wrinkled; shriveled ear lobes; face wrinkled and pale in color; eyes, sunken and dull; cartilaginous parts of the body are rigid and firm; sagging shanks are wider and longer, raised slightly, covered with a white scale, tough, hard and rough; skin is thick, dry, and not elastic; veins are not distinct; voice is more resonant and has deeper volume.
New insert Circular for Gardeners.
"Defend Your Garden Against Insect Pests" is the title of a new and practical circular issued for free by the Wisconsin war gardeners' bureau by the agricultural experiment station, Madison. The control of chewing insects, plant lice, cut worms, stalk boring worms, baggots on radish and turnips, squash bugs, and some pointed cautions on the use of spray mixtures are given in the leaflet.

Fighting Cucumber Beetles.
"Pickle lovers" of Badgerdom who do not want their plans frustrated by the ever-active cucumber beetle, who is even now starting out to earn his living off the tender vines, may use powdered arsenate of lead with fine success, says H. F. Wilson, insect specialist at the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin.

"Combine a pound of arsenate of lead with ten pounds of air slaked lime," he advises, "and dust the vines with this mixture thoroughly when beetles appear. Keep at it until they all give up in disgust."

Prune Tomato Vines for Early Crop.
Prune the tomatoes heavily this year and let the fruit ripen on the vine instead of having to place it in the sunny window to complete its coloring," suggests J. R. Hepler, vegetable expert at the experiment station farm. "Let the tops develop well and then cut out all the extra shoots in the axils of the leaves on the main stem. When training one stem pinch out all side shoots. Keep them trained back by going over the plants weekly. Fasten the tops of the plants securely to the stake four or five feet high. This keeps the vines from sagging on the ground, and makes cleaner, sounder tomatoes. It lets the sunlight in evenly and helps the fruit to ripen early."

Use Empty Hot Beds for Celery.

Wisconsin gardeners have struck a good "chance" this year. They are using the empty hot beds for celery transplants, and are raising the fall crop for storage in this way. They argue that to let the rich, hot bed soil lay idle all summer is foolish and wasteful. Hence many of them have bought strong celery plants from seedsmen and professional gardeners and are setting them out in the hot beds, in squares six inches each way. Men who have tried it before advise the Daily League this keeping the stock well watered is about the prime essential from now until harvest. The two most likely varieties to get, if possible, are the Golden Leaf Blanching and the White Plume.

WAR PICTURES MAY BE EXHIBITED HERE

Invited Audience Reviews War Movies Made By British Government at Apollo This Morning.
Tanks going into action, British "Tommies" swarming over the trenches and crossing no man's land, the heavy artillery in action, bringing back the wounded under heavy shrapnel fire, were but a few of the scenes shown in the war movie, "The Battle of the Ancre," before an invited audience at the Apollo Theatre this morning. The pictures were taken by the British government, and are most of the pictures seen in this country, but actually in front of the guns. They are being shown at various points in the United States to raise money for war relief.

It is likely that arrangements can be perfected for their public exhibition in Janesville in the near future, in which event the city will have an opportunity of seeing exactly what the war is like. All of the details of a great offensive, from beginning to end, are incorporated in the five reels of pictures, and represent an attempt on the part of the British government to give an authentic picture of modern warfare in the first line trenches.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, June 28.—Miss Minnie Handke and Gustav Young were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rathke, the Rev. Gruner officiating. Mrs. H. Handke, Sr., mother of the bride, Mrs. August Young, mother of the groom, and Mrs. H. Handke, sister of the groom, accompanied the happy couple to Rockford and were present at the wedding. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rathke. The trip was made with an auto, and after the bridal party returned to the city last evening the Edgerton band, proceeded to serenade. Young and his bride are the guests of this vicinity and enjoy a wide circle of friends who extend congratulations. They will continue to make their home in this city.

The funeral of the late Mrs. S. Fiedler was held from the German Lutheran church this afternoon at two o'clock. Those from out of the city that were here to pay their respects to her were Mrs. M. and Mrs. Frank Manthe, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Henzel, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fiedler and Mrs. O'Brien of Janesville; Mrs. Hattie Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. August Fiedler of Milton Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Theo Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fuerbringer of Jefferson; Miss Clara Olson of Madison and Mrs. W. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gorham of Geneseo, Ill., arrived yesterday via auto to visit at the home of Mrs. J. Mawhinney. Mrs. Gorham will be remembered as Miss Sarah Mawhinney. The date of the community picnic has been set for August 9th by the committee in charge. This will be the second annual picnic given by the Edgerton Credit association. Admission to the driving park and to the grandstand is to be free of charge, and during the noon hour free ice cream will be served. Better plan on coming to the picnic and be the guest of the Edgerton merchants for the day. The picnic last year was a success from every angle and nothing will be spared this year to make the picnic a success.

Miss Rose Barrett, who is studying to become a nurse at the St. Mary's Hospital at Milwaukee, is enjoying a short vacation at the home of her parents in this city.

Mrs. J. Joyce departed for Amerillo, Texas, yesterday, after a month spent in this city at the home of relatives and friends.

J. W. Menhall departed for Chicago yesterday in the interests of the Edgerton Highway. Material for the factory is arriving slowly, but it is expected within a short time enough material will arrive so that orders on hand can be filled. Mrs. J. J. Leary and Mrs. B. Cleary pleasantly entertained yesterday for Mrs. F. C. Ullrich at the Carleton Hotel. At two o'clock dinner was served, eight covers being laid, after which the afternoon was spent at bridge.

THE DRAFT.

There is apparently much confusion relative to just what the selective draft is going to mean. Many young men have been back on enlisting in the national guard, preferring to take their chances on the draft. Others have joined signal corps, ambulance units, engineering divisions, aerial outfits, attended the officers' reserve corps, and other volunteer organizations. Some have also joined the navy and naval reserves and coast artillery volunteer units. But when the fact comes to the crisis all these volunteer enlistments do not count in summing up the total of the number of men who will be required of Janesville and Rock county in the selective draft.

According to the interpretation of the adjutant general's office at Madison of the selective draft law, only enlistments in the national guard or the regular army will count on the total. The men who have enlisted in other units will be subject for exemption, but their places will have to be taken by others so that the total number required will not be lessened. The numbers are to be drawn in Washington and sent to the various county boards of exemption. The numbers called will be taken up by the army and the physically able. The men who are not physically able to serve will be dropped; those who have actual dependents will be considered and the remainder will be taken over for service.

Under the law these men so drawn can be sent into the regular army units or the national guard units to fill vacancies in the ranks. They have no choice. They can not go with their friends; they go where they are ordered. Just at the present time there is a drive on to recruit the Janesville military unit, Company M of the first regiment, to war strength. It is essential that the fifty men needed to complete the quota be enlisted before Saturday night. If the young men who are subject to the selective draft stop and consider that they are liable to service in any branch of the army, when drawn, one would think they would prefer to enlist in their home company, among friends, rather than be among strangers.

One would also expect the County Board of Defense to take some active part in this recruiting up of the military branches of the service so as to lessen the actual draft when it is made. This the laymen supposed was part of the work of this board, and the funds furnished by the county board would be available for such an emergency, but it has been discovered that it is not, and while individuals may aid, the bulk of the rush for recruits to restore the honor of the county must be made by the men who are already actually enlisted in the company and have demonstrated their patriotism by their donning the khaki. It is hoped that by Saturday night the needed fifty men will be enlisted in Company M and ready to respond to the call to the colors which will come within a few days. It is expected that the week's rush for recruiting for the army units has fallen woefully below the standard set. Of the seventy thousand men needed, but twenty thousand have responded, leaving many thousand places in the ranks of the regular army to be filled from the men chosen by the selective draft.

The enlistments are for the war only, so that the old objection of enlisting in the state guard unit and being forced to remain in the guard after the war is over, is done away with and should hinder no one from joining the militia. Aside from this the state legislature has made a special appropriation of some thirty dollars for each man who is called out in the state guard units as a badge of honor to those who respond to the call for duty and do not wait to be drafted.

LOAFERS.
This is a day of intense activity. Men are digging and delving as never before for self-support and the protection of national ideals. The drum is for more help comes up in a chorus from the factories and the farms. Yet the loafer type has not been eliminated. You still find it on curbstones, hangouts, and park benches.

This class is reduced to lower terms than ever before. The drunkard who presents himself at the factory door with the least disposition for amendment gets his job back. The farmers will take on any man who can handle a hoe.

It is a heyday of opportunity for such characters. They can work a few weeks accumulating the funds for a periodical grand drunk. Then after they sober off, some one will listen to their fair promises, and give them one more chance.

There are always some men who claim they are physically unable to work. They look healthy, but they can't stand the bad air or the sun or the heat or the cold. Constitutional laziness is still a fundamental human trait that crops out even in bustling America. A great many men with this trait are finding work today who under ordinary circumstances would not be considered worth the room they occupy or the instruction necessary.

Such men are not normal American types. There is activity and ambition in American air and most of our young people show it. But the prevailing vices get hold of many men, and enfeeble their physiques and paralyze their minds. The unchecked production of feeble-minded persons creates a large class who are nearly incapable of work. Such elements as these will have to be fed and clothed by their relatives and the public, until the American people find some way to check the prevailing vices that so largely create them.

menace army of Americans will be fighting shoulder to shoulder with the allies to throttle the power of Prussianism and German "kultur" as personified by the German Imperial government. News of the result of the first battle will be awaited for most anxiously. Meanwhile our troops are "Nach Berlin."

WAR CONTRACTS.

Graft follows in the trail of war like disease and fleas. The story of embezzlement is inseparably linked with our Spanish-American conflict. Already paper-soiled boots, supplied the French army by certain Americans, have gone down into history. We must have no more of this business, evidence of which has begun to show itself at Washington.

It is a question of peculiar difficulty. If checks and protections are established against graft, they are apt to become systems of red tape that delay action. This is a time when no delay is possible. What the government needs is competent, practical advice in every department. When it advertises for bids for any article, it should know to whom to go to get a competent opinion whether it is paying too much. And it is no time for splitting cents. Haste sometimes makes it necessary to accept bids known to be too high.

A great deal can be done by appealing to the patriotism of the manufacturers. The banks and bond houses gave their services free to sell the Liberty bonds. Now let the contractors do something corresponding in line. It will tarnish the name of the American commercial world, if while our boys are risking their lives in the trenches, the vultures at home are to make money out of their needs.

A contractor who charges more than a low return on his money may make a dollar. But he will get little satisfaction out of his gains. Palaces erected by such funds will be but monuments of ignominy. A reputation of getting money from the government at this time will follow a man to the grave. If the thing is put up right to the manufacturers, they will in most cases respond. They should be made to feel that low figures are their share of the general burden, and they will be happier all their lives for having helped the government make its money go as far as possible.

The earnestness with which the household urges the family to conserve food in response to the government's patriotic appeal, is no doubt slightly tinged by a contemplation of last month's grocery bill.

Some people's idea of freedom seems to be to get out with a gun and bag a lot of song birds for pot pie, the same being the ones that keep the insects off the farmer's crops.

Kaiser Bill says a lot about what Germany's mailed fist is going to do, but just now that mailed fist seems to be principally busy in digging concrete shelters about seventeen feet under ground.

It is surprising how people swell out the urgent of the patriotic act they have performed, when they have merely bought a Liberty bond and arranged for an absolutely sure income at a good interest rate.

It is not necessary for the women gardeners to rig themselves up with taffeta dresses with white sailor collars and cuffs before going out with the hoe.

Billy Sunday has given $114,000 to the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. work among the soldiers, but the contributions to these causes from Billy's critics have not yet been recorded.

At military weddings the cake must always be cut with the bridegroom's sword, which also would come in handy to stir up the coffee kettle with.

The fact that you have a best girl who expects a call every Sunday night will not be considered sufficient excuse by the exemption boards.

While the food speculators make $250,000,000 according to Mr. Hoover, congress continues to make speeches.

It is claimed that the United States can put it over the Germans by attacking them from the air.

The Russians aren't rushin' to the attack the way they ought to.

STANDING ROOM ONLY.

The town hall was jammed with excitement and expectancy, and the citizens of Squabbers, assembled to hear Professor Hooiram Starve, C.A.S.H., lecture on "Vegetarianism As the Savior of the Race."

But something was amiss. Someone was missing. It was Prof. Starve, and finally, when the patient audience, having found all the flavor gone out of its cheering rum, began to whisper and shuffle its feet. Sneezback Pump, the chairman, arose with a hem and two haws.

"Ladies and gents," he began, "while we are waiting for the arrival of the eminent gentleman and scholar who is to address us this here evening, I will make so bold as to emit a little descriptive phraseology concerning him. Professor Starve, C.A.S.H., lectured and gents, is the founder of the vegetarian religion and the world's most distinguished authority on the question of vegetable diet. Among his books are the well-known classics, 'Vegetables Forever' and 'Canned Calories.' In two years, lecturers and gents, Professor Starve, confining himself exclusively to a diet of vegetable roots, increased his weight from 96 pounds to 237, which he has pictures to prove it. Furthermore, lecturers and gents, at the moment the clerk from the Grand Central Hotel and Bath rushed in, out of breath and breathless. 'Hey, folks,' he puffed, 'Professor Starve won't do no lecturin' tonight. He just went and choked himself to death on a turkey neck!'"

INQUIRY REVEALS TRUST GETS PROFIT AT MINES AND DOCK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis. June 28.—A cloud of mystery hangs over the wholesale and retail coal business from the time the coal leaves the mines until the consumer pays for it, according to testimony before the State Council of Defense yesterday afternoon. Joseph Simpson, vice president of the Milwaukee Fuel company of Milwaukee, was one of the witnesses, and he admitted that he did not know all of the detail of the business transactions by that concern. He said that his company did not own any mines and did not purchase any coal, but acted as the Delaware & Lackawanna Western Fuel company, disposing of coal in Milwaukee and in the state on commission. The price at which it was disposed to retailers, he said, was $10.20 a ton in River Falls, the freight rates being the same as from Milwaukee to Madison. Many other witnesses will be examined before the council completes this investigation.

It was brought out that with the freight rate of $1.25 a ton from Milwaukee to Madison the dealers in this city could sell coal at $11.45 a ton and receive the same profit as the Milwaukee retailers. Today the state council learned that hard coal was selling at $10.45 in Dodgeville and at $10.10 a ton in River Falls.

The questions brought out the following information: The price of coal from the mines to the consumer: That the price of coal at the mines is $3.60 a ton.

That the combined lake and rail transportation charges brings this price to $5.40 per ton at the dock in Milwaukee.

That there is a jump from the cost at the dock to $7.45 a ton to retailers for coal delivered on wagons.

That another raise is added so that when it reaches the consumer it costs $9.95 per ton. With an extra charge of 50c per ton if carried in.

Mr. Simpson was not able to say whether his company or the Delaware & Lackawanna company received this $2.00 profit between the price at the dock and the price to the retail dealer. He testified, however, that this company disposed of about 250,000 tons of hard coal during the year in Milwaukee, of which 60,000 tons was sold at retail. Of this amount the coal which was handled at wholesale was sold as a whole to the Milwaukee & Buffalo, and 50c across the lake. Adding this $2.75 to the $3.60, the accepted price at the mines would bring the coal laid down at his company's dock to $6.35 a ton. His prices were almost identical with the prices quoted by Mr. Simpson. He said that the rock to retailers with a 50c additional charge placed on wagon.

LINCOLN CHAUTAUQUA HAS VARIED PROGRAM

MEN OF NATIONAL REPUTATION AS SPEAKERS SCHEDULED FOR ADDRESSES ON LOCAL PROGRAM:

PREDICT BIG SUCCESS

Added Attraction of Youth's Chautauqua Expected to Be Big Drawing Card This Year.

A glance at the program of the Lincoln chautauqua which will be given in this city from July third to eighth, inclusive, shows a series of programs of more than usual merit, and with a wide range of numbers calculated to appeal to the most varied taste of the large clientele which the Lincoln chautauqua has in Janesville.

It was the hope of the local Chautauqua association, under the direction of the three officers—A. S. Kretz, C. W. Cummings, and D. D. Maross—that this year's program might be expressive of the people's desire for patriotic action and community building, to an even greater extent than is usually the case in less tense times. Consequently the appearance on the program of such men as Ira Landrith, Nels Darling, E. L. Eaton, and others, attempts to the success of the association in providing the city with real inspirational advice on the building of the moral tone of the community.

Ira Landrith, candidate for the presidency of the prohibition ticket last fall, has established a reputation for himself as an orator of national fame. He speaks from a wide experience and with a charm which is rendered doubly effective by the charm of his address. Mr. Landrith will deliver two addresses on the last day of the chautauqua. Nels Darling is essentially a town builder, a man who has made a deep study of the underlying forces which aid or retard the development of a community. He analyzes these conditions and prescribes the remedies, and who for years has devoted his life to this work. Down in Oklahoma, where he is well known by all as the "Town Doctor," Dr. E. L. Eaton, who will talk on the fourth day on the "Psychology of Success," makes his home in Madison, Wis., and for years has been one of the leading figures as a scholar and speaker in that community. His work as a scientist and lecturer is known throughout the country, and his lectures have been given with great success before hundreds of chautauqua audiences.

One of the features of this year's program is the youth's chautauqua, in which many hours are given over to the children for play under the leadership of skilled play directors. Its object, declared Mr. Cummings today, "is to give all the boys and girls of the community an opportunity to learn the games best suited to their age and development. Young people develop character and good citizenship through their games, strengthening their social standards and combining mental, moral and physical proficiency in wholesome recreation."

This special feature for the children will open Monday evening, the night before the chautauqua program starts, with a parade and play festival, to which all children of the city are invited. Following an auto ride around the city, the young people will gather at the chautauqua grounds on the old Y. M. C. A. tennis courts on West Milwaukee street, where a children's program of games and dances will be given. It is the special hope of the local committee that the parents and teachers fully realize the importance of these features, and they are urged to take an active part in the various sessions of the youth's chautauqua.

As a means for the patrons to economize the chautauqua has placed on sale season tickets for the twelve sessions of the week, at a saving of three dollars, compared to the added cost of the individual programs. These tickets are sold at the various banks and drug stores, and at a number of downtown shops. The fact that the chautauqua tent is so centrally located this year is expected to be a large factor in bringing his crowds. Few cities can offer as convenient a location as is the plot where the Y. M. C. A. tennis courts are located. This combined with the low cost, and the exceptional program are expected to make a great success of this year's chautauqua.

DR. IRA LANDRITH

DR. IRA LANDRITH was for years one of the leading journalists of the south. For ten years he was the editor in chief of the Cumberland Presbyterian, a journal that occupies a national position in the religious field. He later became general secretary of the Religious Educational Association. He has been moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, chairman of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., secretary of the Men and Religion Movement and president of Ward-Belmont College, the strongest woman's college in the south. He is a giant intellectually, a man of wonderful personal magnetism, of splendid oratorical ability and is loved by every one who knows him. His talks are gems. At night the address will be in the nature of an inspirational talk addressed particularly to the young men of the community. He will be here the last day.

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Belle Bruce, leading woman playing in the support of Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, used to be a school teacher. Only a few years ago she was teaching in Boston, soon after her graduation from the Girls Latin school. She also studied law for a year with her father, who is a successful criminal lawyer. She spent a little time on the stage in her very early twenties. Then she entered motion pictures.

Miss Bruce has already begun to make a name for herself in parts calling for a combination of intelligence and attractiveness. She is now a leading player should study the entire story of a photodrama, absorbing its atmosphere, before undertaking to play even one scene, so that the denouement, whether happy or tragic, may be unconsciously reflected in every look and movement, and the final scenes may appear to be only the true development of what has gone before.

STUDIES LINCOLN FOR THE SCREEN.

Benjamin Chaplin's impersonation of Abraham Lincoln for the screen is not a mere matter of whiskers and a high hat. Chaplin, it seems, has devoted his life to a study of Lincoln, has always had him for his hero and has aped him in real life as well as on the stage and before the camera. The Lincoln cycle of movies, lately finished by Chaplin, has been pronounced the most nearly accurate presentation of the hero's life yet put into pictures.

One scene shifter, having shifted and reshifted to suit the exacting actor-manager, purports to have caught the spirit of things so far as to matter to another of the crew. "I'm on to this guy. He ain't going to be satisfied till he's assassinated."

Mabel Taliaferro, Metro star, has been elected an honorary corporal of company K, Home Defense League of Flushing, L. I. This is the first time in the history of the league that a woman has been so honored. Miss Taliaferro has accepted the position and already has ordered a uniform and will soon make her appearance with the Flushing division of the league.

U. S. WILL FOLLOW RIGID DRAFT PLANS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, June 28.—Rigid adherence to the policy laid down in the national army selective draft law, of placing the question of exemptions in the hands of local boards, is expected to characterize the exemption regulations to be made public by the war department in a few days.

It is understood that the regulations will map out only the general procedure of the boards, the personnel of which already has been announced. It is regarded as certain that no specific class exemptions will be provided for, and that each man will be appraised on his individual occupation and physical capacity when his name is called and he is summoned before the local boards.

Defectives, Of Course, Exempt
As a matter of course no man with serious physical defects will be called upon for military service. Crippled or defective persons among those who were registered were noted at the time, and it is possible they already have been dropped from the rolls. The judgment of the civilian doctors who are attached to local exemption boards as to the ability of any individual to perform the hardships of a soldier's life will be a determining factor.

Married men will not be exempted as a class. In each case the object of the board will be to determine whether the dependency of wife, children or other relatives upon any man is so complete as to warrant his rejection as a soldier.

Local Boards to Judge.
Probably the boards will be furnished with suggestions as to occupational exemption. The government can outline generally the professions or trades which must be maintained at full strength behind the fighting lines. The importance of an individual in that profession or trade, however, can only be determined by the local board.

No inkling has been given as to the part to be assigned to those who are to be granted partial exemption because of religious belief. They are to be freed of the necessity of bringing upon enemy soldiers and therefore from regular military service, but the act contemplates that they can serve in some non-combatant capacity behind the lines and holds them liable for such service. In such cases the question of physical qualifications is wholly different and there are many fine points that will have to be decided in that connection as the facts present themselves.

The Real Adventure

A NOVEL

By Henry Kittell Webster

CHAPTER X.

A Birthday.

Rodney heard young Craig, who devilled up law for him, saying good night to the stenographer. He waited till he heard them go, then went out and disconnected his own desk telephone, which the office boy, on going home, always left plugged through; went back to his inner office again, and shut the door after him.

There was more than enough pressing work on his desk to fill the clear hour that remained to him before he had to start for home. But he didn't mean to do it. He didn't mean to do anything except to drink down thirstily the sixty minutes of pure solitude that were before him. That hour had become a habit with him lately, like—like a drug. Life was futile about it, too. He never corrected Rose's assumption that the thing which kept him late at the office so much of the time nowadays was a press of work.

It was not that she had faded for him—become less the potent, vivid, irresistible thing he had first fallen in love with. Rather the contrary. She hadn't seemed quite well, lately, nor altogether happy, and he had not been able to find out why. He had attributed it at first to the shock occasioned by her mother's illness and her departure with Portia to California; but this explanation seemed not to cover the ground. She was all right, she always said. He couldn't force confidence from her, of course. But her pale face and eyes wide with a trouble in them he could not fathom, stirred something deeper in him than the former glow and glory had ever

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a package of canthax and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the delicately perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dirt, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure. Advertisment.

Says Fine For Sore Burning, Inflamed Feet

Don't worry when your feet smart and burn and ache and feel sore all day long. You can easily get rid of the agony and distress by drawing out the inflammation with Peterson's Ointment.

"I know a hundred men," says Peterson, "who tell me that after trying the many things advertised for sore feet that the only relief they found was in a 26 cent box of Peterson's Ointment."

"Rub it on freely before going to bed, first washing the feet with soap and hot water, and I'm sure you'll sleep sound and wake up in the morning with feet almost as good as new and soreness all gone."

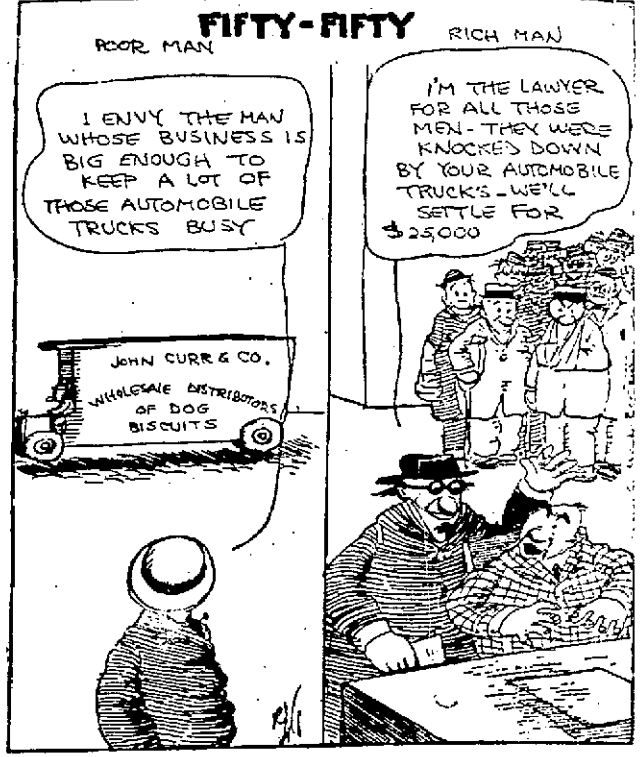

"Sore feet is a common, yet painful ailment that can be readily conquered by use of Peterson's Ointment, which has cured thousands of Eczema, Piles, Running sores and skin diseases. Every druggist in America is authorized to refund your money if Peterson's Ointment doesn't do as advertised."

THE SMALLEST THING AT A WEDDING IS THE BRIDEGROOM, BUT—

DEAR GROOM:—DON'T GET DISCOURAGED WHEN YOU FIND THAT YOU DON'T COUNT FOR ANYTHING AT THE WEDDING. YOU WILL BE VERY POPULAR LATER ON reacted.

And there was a new thing that gripped him in a positively terrifying way—a realization of his importance to her. He had discovered one day—a fortnight or so ago, in the course of a rummage after some article he had mislaid, a heap of law books that weren't his. He had guessed the explanation of them, but had said nothing to Rose about it—had found it curiously impossible to say anything. If only she had taken upon something of her own! It seemed as essentially a law of her being to attempt to absorb herself in him, as it was a law of his to resist that absorption of himself in her.

But resistance was difficult. The tendency was, after his perfectly solid, recognizable duties had been given their place in the cubic content of his day, that Rose should fill up the rest. And yet there was a man in him who was neither the hard-working, successful advocate, nor Rose's husband—a man whose existence Rose didn't seem to suspect. (Was there, then, in her no woman that corresponded to him?) That man had to fight now for a chance to breathe.

He got a pipe out of a drawer in his desk, loaded and lighted it, stretched his arms, and sat down in his desk chair. The thing exactly in front of his eyes was his desk calendar. There was something familiar about the date—some subconscious association that couldn't quite rise to the surface. Was there something he had to do today, that he'd forgotten? . . . Then, with a grunt of relief and amusement, he got it. It was his birthday! Another milestone.

A year ago! That was the day it had all begun. How did he compare—the man who sat there now—with the man who had unhesitatingly jumped off the car to follow a new adventure—the man who had turned up water-logged at Frederick's dinner and made hay of her plan to marry him off to Hermione Woodruff!

He was increasing his practice now, making money, getting cautious—prudent; he didn't bolt the truck any more. And the quality of his work was good; he couldn't quarrel with that. Only the old, big free dreams that had glorified it were gone. He was in harness, drawing a cart; following a bundle of hay.

The building was pretty well deserted by now, and against the silence he heard the buzzer in his telephone switchboard proclaiming insistently that someone was trying to get him on the phone. He thought at first he wouldn't answer. He didn't want to talk to anybody. But no one can resist the mechanical bell ringers they use in exchanges nowadays—the even-spaced ring and wait, ring and wait, so manifestly incapable of discouragement. At the end of forty-five seconds, he snatched open his door, punched the Jack into its socket, caught up the head piece, and belatedly "Hello!" into the dangling transmitter.

And five minutes later he was calling Rose on the wire. "Rose, listen to this! Barry Lake and his wife are here. He just called up. They got in from New York at five o'clock, and I've asked them out to dinner—Barry Lake and Jane! What's the matter? Can't you hear me? . . . Why, they're about the best friends I've got. The magazine writer, you know, and his wife. And they're coming out to dinner—coming right out. I told them not to dress. I'll come straight home myself—get there before they do, I guess. . . . All right! Good-by!"

But he sat there frowning in a puzzled sort of way for half a minute. Rose's voice had certainly sounded queer. He was sure she hadn't planned anything else for tonight. He distinctly remembered her saying just before he left for the office, that they'd have the evening to themselves. And it was incredible that she minded his bringing home two old friends like the Lakes on the spur of the moment, to take pot-luck. Oh, well, you couldn't tell about people's voices over the phone. There must have been something funny about the connection.

An opportune taxi just passing the entrance to his office building as he came out, enabled Rodney to better the fifteen minutes he'd allowed for getting home. But in spite of that fact, he found Rose rather splendidly gown for her expected guests.

"Good gracious!" he cried excitedly. "What did you do that for? I thought I told you over the phone the Lakes weren't going to dress."

"I was—dressed like this when you telephoned," Rose said. "And I was afraid there wouldn't be time to change into anything else." "We weren't going anywhere, were we?" he asked. "There's nothing I've forgotten?" "No," she said, "we weren't going anywhere." "And you dressed like that just for a—treat for me?" She nodded. "Just for you," she said. "Roddy, who are the Lakes?—Oh, I know his articles, I think. But when were they friends of yours, and when?"

"Why, for years, until they moved to New York. They used to live here. I know I must have told you about them. I was always having dinner with them—either out in Rogers Park, where they lived, or at queer, terrible little restaurants downtown. They were always game to try anything, once. He's the longest, leanest, angeliest absent-mindedest chap in the world. And just about the best. And his wife fits all his angles. She writes, too. Oh, you're sure to like them! They're going to be out here for months, he says. He's going to specialize in women and he's come back here where they get the vote, to make headquarters. It's great! I haven't had a real talk with anybody since he went away, over a year ago."

Then, at the sound of the bell, he cried out: "There they are!" and dashed down into the hall ahead of the parlor maid, as eagerly as a schoolboy anticipating a birthday present.

Rose followed more slowly, and by the time she had reached the landing, she found him slapping Barry on the back and shaking both hands with Jane, and trying to help both of them out of their wraps at once.

When the greetings were over and they were on the way upstairs again, he said: "I told Rose we weren't going to dress, but she explained she didn't put on this coronation robe for you, but for a treat for me before I telephoned, and hadn't time to change back."

And when Jane cried out, as they entered the drawing room: "Good heavens, Rodney, what a house!" he answered: "It isn't ours. We rented it for a year in some sort of honeymoon delirium, I guess. We don't live up to it, of course. Nobody could but the woman who built it."

The gaiety in his voice clouded a little as he said it, and his grin, for a moment, had a rueful twist. But for a moment only. Then his untimpered delight in the possession of his old friends took him again.

They talked—heavens, how they talked! It was like the breaking up of a log jam. The two men would rush along, side by side, in perfect agreement for a while, catching each other's half-expressed ideas, and hurrying them forward, and then suddenly they'd meet, head on, in collision over some fundamental difference of opinion, amid a prismatic spray of epigram. Jane kept up a sort of obligation to the show, inserting provocative witticisms here and there, sometimes as Rodney's ally, sometimes as her husband's, and luring them, when she could, into the quiet backwater of metaphysics, where she was more than a match for the two of them.

But the main topic of the evening got launched when Rodney seized the advantage of a pause, to say:

"A series of articles on women, eh? What are you going to do to them?"

With that the topic of feminism was on the carpet and it was never thereafter abandoned. After half an hour of it Jane turned to Rodney. "But what do you think about it?" she demanded. "You've been grinning away there all this time without saying a word. Are you for it?"

"For what?" Rodney wanted to know.

Dinner Stories

While in London on a holiday a visitor went to have a look at the Thames. There was a steam shovel at work out in the river and he was standing with him. Suddenly he felt a tap on his shoulder and turned round to find a son of Erin standing there.

"Say," said he, "isn't London a wonderful place? By gorry, now look at that thing going down there; now look at it, isn't that wonderful? But say, old man, I wouldn't want to be the cove at the bottom filling that thing up, would ye?"

A gentleman in Cincinnati employs two negroes to work on his rather extensive gardens, which he personally oversees. One morning Sam did not appear.

"Where is Sam, George?" he asked.

"In de hospital, sah." "In the hospital? Why, how in the world did that happen?"

"Well, sah, he been a'tellin' me ev' mo'nin' for ten years he gwine to lick his wife 'cause o' her nagin'."

"Well, yestiddy she done ovahheah him. Dat's all."

"It is remarkable," said Mr. Gruntler, "how mean some people are. I had with me a fishing trip friends who evidently were familiar with my reputation as an angler. Before starting one of them made the following suggestion: 'We will agree that the first one who catches a fish must treat the crowd.' I assented to this, and we started. Now, don't you know, those two fellows both had a bite and were too mean to pull them up."

"I suppose you lost, then?" remarked the friend.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Gruntler. "I didn't have any bait or my hook."

WHERE YOU GOING
DOING FRANK? OUT TO SHOOT A FEW
MOTORCYCLES

Motorcycles should be seen and not heard.

The average motorcyclist uses his motor as a musical instrument instead of as a vehicle.

You can hear most motorcycles for four miles—two miles coming and two miles going. The latter two miles, you can smell them also.

The motorcycle is nothing more than a bicycle with a Gatling gun mounted amidships, and a seat for a lady accomplice stuck on the rear.

We are told by a motorcycle dealer that motorcycles will run along as quietly as a watch and that the automatic riveter effect is all unnecessary, but the ordinary motorcyclist seems to like to take the lid off and shoot at everybody as he passes down the road.

So when we go out riding in our horse-and-buggy we always feel like going armed for motorcycles and fighting back.

Sometimes we feel like we would like to shoot a motorcycle in the gasoline tank or some other vital spot and go up and watch its death struggles. Of course, there would be a little danger of hitting the lady accomplice, but she ought to be a little more careful of her life in her hands, anyway, when she goes out riding with a guerilla motorcyclist.

The law ought to make motorcyclists use Maxim silencers.

"How Much Should a Tire Cost?"

O. B. Shavlem

THIS may be a good deal like Abraham Lincoln's question: "How long should a man's legs be?" And it can be answered almost as shortly.

You don't need to pay a cent more than the price of a Diamond Tire for all the service and mileage you can ever hope to get from any tire.

Come into our store today and learn the "Fair List" price for your size. We will be glad to tell you, if we can, how to get more mileage out of the tires now on your car.

Every Diamond Tire must deliver full value in service. If ever a Diamond Tire fails, a cheerful, willing adjustment will be promptly made.

GOVERNOR APPROVES FIRE POLICY BILL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 28.—The governor has also given his approval to the so-called full value policy law in case of fire. This measure was urged by Lieutenant Governor E. F. Dittmar in the last campaign and the bill was introduced by Assemblyman George Carpenter of Sauk county. The measure provides that whenever any policy of insurance is written to insure real property and the property insured is wholly destroyed, without criminal fault on the part of the insured or his assignee, the amount of the insurance written in such policy shall be taken conclusively to be the true value of the property when insured and the true amount of loss and measure of damage when destroyed. The measure had the support from the farming interests of the state.

The standard fire insurance policy law will not become effective until January 1, 1918. Governor Philipp has just signed the Wilkinson bill delaying the time on which this act shall take effect. Where the law passed, the bill provided that the standard fire insurance policy should take effect on July 1. It was later found that several other states in the Union had enacted a similar law and it was desired that all of the measures should become effective on a uniform date. To conform with the other state enactments, Senator Wilkinson introduced a similar law and this law should become effective on January 1, 1918.

Governor Philipp has signed the Carl Hansen bill relating to appeals from decisions of boards of police commissions in cities of the second, third and fourth classes. This measure was introduced to compel commissioners to put in writing all orders and findings upon hearing by such boards.

He has also approved the bill giving Milwaukee county the right to pass ordinance for the semi-monthly payment of wages of county employes. Governor Philipp has signed the bill authorizing the state board of control to enter into a contract with the village of Union Grove to connect with the Spurgeon Home for Feeble Minded with the sewer system of the village of Union Grove.

He has also approved the bill providing that whenever provision is made by the law of the state for any city of the first class for appointment, such appointee shall hold over until his successor shall have been appointed and shall have qualified. This bill was to correct a situation in Milwaukee, where a member of the park board's term had expired but no successor had been approved by the council.

The nautical mile is often incorrectly called a knot, but a knot is a measure of both distance and time. It is correct to say that a vessel makes ten knots, but to say that she makes ten knots an hour is tautology.
